About the Seminar

India's long-term national vision, Viksit Bharat 2047, seeks to transform the country into a developed, inclusive, and sustainable economy by the centenary year of Independence. At the global level, the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) provide a comprehensive framework to address key challenges such as poverty, inequality, climate change, health, education, and good governance. This seminar aims to critically examine the alignment between Vision Viksit Bharat 2047 and the Sustainable Development Goals, with a particular focus on recent policy initiatives, institutional reforms, and development strategies in India.
